

CORNELL H. WINSTON

needed to become a law librarian. We are not one dimensional. We need to con - tinue our outreach to mar - ginalized communities. This

Q: What is one of the most valuable lessons you have learned in your professional career?

At the first law firm I worked at, they had a motto: "The best source of new business is the work that is currently on your desk." I took the core of that message to heart. Treat every assignment as if it was coming from your most valuable client.
Do the very best with what you have been given. Reach out to colleagues when you need assis - tance. This builds confidence in your ability among your patrons.

Q: What drives your passion for law librarianship?

My passion for law librarian - ship is driven by the impact - ful service we provide and the significant effects it has on the cases our office handles. Each day offers a new opportunity to apply our knowledge in meaningful, tangible ways that make a real difference. ■